SUBJECT: Customer feedback – Mini T Speakers

December 2014

To all those who have not yet auditioned the Mini-Ts, I have to tell you my experience...

Over the last year, I have read with interest the reviews of the Mini-T in this forum and on many other sites. My interest was piqued. Driving to the dealer (Audio Eden just north of Toronto) to audition a pair, I was a little skeptical. My thinking was that all the hype may be a result of some advertiser revenue recipient/dealer bias which is understandable as that's the way the world works.

When I got to the dealer, he had the Mini-Ts ready to play. I sat down, he put on some music and walked away.

The sound was amazing for such small speakers. Eyes closed you would think the speakers were at least twice the size. The low end was incredible. It sounded like a well balanced 2.1 system but the dealer swore there was no subwoofer working away out of sight. The tone and timbre of the speakers was realistic and uncoloured and handled the various genres of sample material with strength without losing detail. I was so impressed that I bought a pair after I finished my audition. The dealer had just set up the audition and let the Mini-T's sell themselves. What a great experience!

So fellow audiophiles, if you are in the market for nearfield or small enclosure speakers, do yourself a favour and give the Mini-T's an audition. I guarantee that for size/price/performance you will not find a better speaker.

And to you Bryston dealers, shame on you if you do not stock the Mini-Ts as they sell themselves.
